

Announcing the World Culinary

Grand Prix
at ScotHot 2005

25-28 April 2005, Glasgow SECC

Held every four years, the Knorr World Culinary Grand Prix is held in conjunction with ScotHot- one of the largest and most successful hospitality shows in the UK.

The competition offers an opportunity for the world's best culinary teams to come head to head in both the hot kitchens in the purpose built Restaurant of Nations and the cold buffet tables.

One of just six global competitions accredited by The World Association of Cooks Societies (WACS), this prestigious competition is organised in conjunction with the Federation of Chefs Scotland. Taking place for the third time, the competition is also the only international level culinary competition in the UK. 12 teams from all over the world are invited to compete live at what promises to be the highlight of the Culinary Calendar in 2005. Visitors to the event can experience the competition first hand by dining on their creations in the Restaurant of Nations.
